Lucien è figlio di madre nobile e padre plebeo. Sogna di essere un poeta e spera di conquistare grande considerazione sociale grazie alla letteratura. Ci riesce nella sua città di provincia, Angoulême, ma esce sconfitto nella capitale. Illusioni perdute è un po il romanzo della vita di Balzac: il giovane provinciale che giunge nella grande città non è solo ambizioso, è un aspirante scrittore che affronta la società letteraria

This book represents an investigation into one of the basic issues in the study of translation: how do we reconcile theory and practice? The main focus, in the form of close readings and think-aloud protocols in Chapters 2 and 3, is on translations of two classic texts: Mark Twain's The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn and Carlo Collodi's Le avventure di Pinocchio. The first and last chapters respectively seek to show what translation theory is and what translation practice is. Indeed, Chapter 1, "Theory and Hubris," provides a synthesis of the development of the interdiscipline of Translation Studies, with some consideration also given to the hermeneutical questions that inevitably arise when dealing with the interpretation of language.

Con un poco di nostalgia, ma soprattutto con la poesia e l'ironia della sua prosa, Francesco Guccini posa il suo sguardo sornione su oggetti, situazioni, emozioni di un passato che è di ciascuno di noi, ma che rischia di andare perduto, sepolto nella soffitta del tempo. Un viaggio nella vita di ieri che si legge come un romanzo.
